Workshop Report

CP & Berar College, Nagpur, successfully conducted a workshop on compost making under the SEC Activity in the subject of Home economics with the aim of promoting eco-friendly waste management practices. The event focused on educating students about vermicomposting and its benefits for the environment.

The workshop featured Mr. Rakesh Thakrele, Director of Saath Agro Company, as the chief guest. He conducted a comprehensive training session, explaining the vermicomposting process step by step. Mr. Thakrele demonstrated how to use organic waste and worms to create nutrient-rich compost. He also spoke about various employment opportunities related to compost making, encouraging students to explore green careers and sustainable business ideas.

The workshop was presided over by Dr. Jitendra Mahajan, (Vice principal of College) who praised the initiative and its impact on raising environmental awareness. The event was well-coordinated under the leadership of Professor Prerna Ratnaparkhi. Students actively participated in the hands-on demonstration and showed keen interest in learning practical composting skills. The session allowed them to understand how they could apply these techniques at home or in their communities to reduce waste and promote sustainability.

The event concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by Priya Choudhary

Overall, the workshop proved to be a motivational initiative, empowering students to adopt eco-friendly practices and consider green careers in the future.

Efforts and Initiatives Based on Experiment Outcomes (प्रयत्न अनुभवावर आधारित उपक्रम)

Most respondents showed a high level of satisfaction with efforts made in incorporating experimental outcomes. There is a consistently high proportion of "Highly Satisfied" responses across various efforts and initiatives. A small segment of the responses indicates neutral or dissatisfaction, highlighting room for refinement in initiative execution.

Subjective and Satisfaction Factors (विषयवस्तु आणि समाधान)

For factors related to satisfaction with content and subject material, responses were mostly positive, with significant satisfaction levels. Satisfaction with curriculum content and presentation was strong, indicating a well-structured program or event. Monitoring feedback over time can further ensure continued improvements in areas where "Neutral" or "Dissatisfied" responses are seen.

Overall Summary

The majority of the responses across all categories indicate high levels of satisfaction, reflecting a positive impact of the initiatives and content delivery. Future actions should aim to address minor dissatisfaction trends to enhance the overall experience.
